

Select FILE --> PRINT to print this story.

News - Friday, August 30, 2013

'Green Scene' part of First Wednesday next week
4th annual event will feature environmental tips, organic foods

Hacienda and the city of Pleasanton are hosting the 4th annual Pleasanton Green Scene fair next week in conjunction with the First Wednesday Street Party downtown.

The Green Scene booths will be on Division Street and Railroad Avenue, across from the Firehouse Arts Center. Exhibits will feature specialists on green practices, products and services with tips on how to create a sustainable lifestyle.

The event also will feature live music and a farmers market offering organic foods and nutritional products.

Among other features will be an alternative fuel vehicle, health and wellness products and services, energy efficiency and savings rebates, solar power information, water efficiency and conservation programs, craft stations for children at the Firehouse Center, and a beer and wine garden with a catering vendors.

Commuters also will be given advice on transportation and travel services.

The Green Scene event will take place during the First Wednesday celebration from 6-9 p.m. Wednesday.

For more information, contact Julie Vlahon at the Pleasanton Downtown Association at 484-2199 or by email at events@pleasantondowntown.net, or James Paxson at the Hacienda Owners Association, 734-6500 or by email at info@hacienda.org.

Find this article at:

http://www.PleasantonWeekly.com/story.php?story_id=10845