Final Phase of HBP Receives Unanimous Approval

In an eagerly awaited decision, the Pleasanton City Council has unanimously approved the second and final phase of Hacienda Business Park, giving both the city and the park's developers greater ability to provide a well-planned, beneficial future for Pleasanton.

"The approval to use land in Phase II gives us the ability to complete the city's and our traffic circulation plans and to construct a new interchange at Hacienda Drive and Interstate 580," said Roger Gage, general manager of real estate operations for The Prudential Insurance Company of America. Prudential, along with Callahan-Pentz Properties, is developing the 713-acre (net) business park in north Pleasanton.

Gage pointed out that the future Hacienda Drive interchange, coupled with the Hopyard Road/I-580 improvements currently underway, will go a long way in helping to mitigate potential traffic problems throughout north Pleasanton

Under current scheduling, the improved, dual-bridge Hopyard/I-580 intersection will be completed in summer of next year. The construction of the new Hacienda Drive/I-580 interchange, located about halfway between Hopyard and Santa Rita roads, could begin sometime in early 1988.

Current plans also call for additional freeway access to be built at Stoneridge Drive and I-680. Like Hacienda Drive, this interchange could get underway in early '88, giving north Pleasanton four points of access with the local interstate system.

The result of construction and improvements to the four intersections will be to give residents and workers in the north Pleasanton area almost instant access to the freeways. "Getting in and out of Hacienda Business Park will be extremely easy and accomplished with minimal impact on Pleasanton's existing surface streets," Gage noted.

Besides overall improvements to traffic flow and circulation, the approval of Phase II will bring other benefits to the city of Pleasanton and Hacienda. PUBLIC SAFETY CENTER

This facility is designed to accommodate paramedical, fire safety and security equipment and personnel, lessening response time to north Pleasanton residents and providing enhanced protection to all of Pleasanton. A heliport on the center's roof will aid the transfer of the critically injured to medical facilities better able to handle their needs. CHILD CARE CENTER

Similar to the child care center currently under construction in Phase I, the center in Plase II will accommodate between 200 & 250 preschool-aged children. of park employees and offer toy library and seminar privileges to all local residents.

TRANSIT CENTER

Land will be set aside for a transit center that will soon be used for parkand-ride services, with the potential for the site to be further developed into a transportation station. The station would allow a convenient and logical location for Pleasanton residents to board the new valleywide bus system and BART/AC Transit buses, or perhaps a future light rail system along the old Southern Pacific right-of-way or an extension of the BART

BOOST TO CITY REVENUES

Taxes and assessments against Phase II developments will help make Pleasanton one of the most financially secure cities in the nation. It will allow the city to be able to provide top-flight services and to improve and maintain infrastructure throughout the municipality's 15 square

MAINTAIN AND ENHANCE QUALI-TY OF LIFE

The vitality of a whole Hacienda Business Park will help to keep downtown businesses economically sound, allow for increased acquisition and improvements to the city's park system and ensure adequate funding of on-going mitigation efforts to combat potential problems in traffic, air quality and water supplies. PROVIDE ADDITIONAL LOCAL

Phase II will eventually be able to offer an additional 15,000 local jobs in senior management, middle management, clerical, data processing, entry level and

Lifesaving Devices Installed in Valley Homes

There are few situations as fearful as that of an elderly person, frail and alone. In an increasingly mobile society, families are often separated or grown children are unable to care for their aging parents. A program like Lifeline can quite literally be a life saver.

Last December, Valley Memorial Hospital began installing the Lifeline service. Today, there are nineteen Pleasanton subscriber to the Lifeline service with the emergency response unit in her home.

subscribers in the Valley who have this emergency response system in their home.

Lifeline is designed for handicapped, isolated, frail or elderly individuals who may experience a medical emergency in

The system consists of a small personal help button which the patient wears on a chain around their-neck. The help button activates the home unit attached to their telephone which automatically dials the Emergency Response Center at Valley Memorial Hospital. Lifeline works even if the phone is off the hook or the power

Specially trained personnel staff the 24-hour Emergency Response Center. When a signal for help is received, they phone the subscriber to see what help is needed. If the subscriber is unable to answer the phone, they will call a "responder" to go to the subscriber's home. Responders are friends, neighbors or relatives living nearby whose names are on file with the Response Center staff.

When the responder arrives, they press a reset button on the system which signals the Response Center that help has arrived. The Center then phones to see what help is needed such as the dispatching of an ambulance.

Carolyn Goertz is the Lifeline Coordinator at Valley Memorial Hospital and she is enthusiastic about the Lifeline service. "Our program is hospital based and community supported." She says many Pleasanton residents are still unaware of the program and urges anyone in need to contact her for information or help.

The start-up costs of the system were over $20,000 and contributors included the Livermore Rotary Club, the Valley Memorial Auxiliary, the Women's Clubs of Pleasanton and Dublin and numerous individuals.

Most notably were the Seavers of Pleasanton who along with nearly 1000 friends and neighbors contributed $25,000 to the Lifeline program in memory of their daughter, Donna.

Each response unit costs $500 and they are leased by the hospital to subscribers who pay a $10 installation fee and $15 per month. Anyone unable to pay the fees will be considered for financial aid "on a case by case basis" according to Goertz.

The Lifeline program and Goertz can be reached by phoning 373-4020.

In my opinion is a bi-monthly column featuring opinions by guest editors. This month's column is by Jerry Lemm, President of the Chamber of Commerce and a 17 year resident of Pleasanton.

As President of the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce and a resident of Pleasanton for 17 years. I feel lucky to live in "The City of Planned Progress." How many times have we heard that phrase and considered it just a cliche?

But when I think back on the days in 1969 when I moved to Pleasanton and commuted to work in San Francisco, I really appreciate the changes that have come about over the years.

I also remember how little I was involved in community affairs. If it did not affect my block or my children or their school, I just didn't get involved. I lived in Stoneridge in the days before the overpass and it was easier to shop in Dublin.

But in 1972, I changed careers and got into commercial real estate. I was terribly naive. I didn't know who was on the City Council or what they did. I didn't even know what the Planning Commision was.

Though I wasn't involved, many committed citizens were. They were doing the hard work of laying the foundations for the great changes we've seen over the last few years. I'm thinking of such people as Judge Gale, Dee Wilson, Warren Harding, Rev. Bob Vogt, Ben Fernandez, Ken Mercer, and Dagmar Fulton.

"...I really appreciate the changes that have come about over the years"

They have donated countless hours to city councils, commissions, review committees, chamber committees and other community organizations. They thought it was a great place to live then, and worked hard to keep it that way. At the same time, they recognized that change is part of life and our concerned citizens have been planning and monitoring those changes and growth in our community.

We often take for granted the productive economy in Pleasanton. People work hard to create an atmosphere of economic prosperity. They also work hard to maintain traditions, such as our downtown Main Street. They work hard to contribute to the quality of life for our youth and our seniors at the same time working for economic growth that will benefit all.

In a way, the Chamber of Commerce is a mirror of our city. We have grown to be the largest Chamber in the Valley and we are working to combine the qualities of a friendly small town with those of a prosperous city on the rise.

The Chamber does much of its work through standing committees which meet regularly to work in such areas as business and education, maintaining a strong downtown, economic development, Heritage Days and small businesses.

We have revitalized our Governmental Affairs committee to help keep citizens and businesses informed of the many issues and elections coming up this year. If Prop. 4 after-effects, Measure B and

What is your all-time favorite movie and why?

Steve Mohatt - "A tie between 'One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest' and 'Young Frankenstein' both because they were comedies."

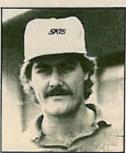

Marilyn O'Brien "The Verdict.' It was a great movie and a great performance as usual by Paul Newman."

Grant Jondahl and Kevin Brodehl - "Rocky IV." We like the songs."

Dave Williams - "A great film that wasn't a big hit at the box office a few years ago was 'Body Heat.' It was a steamy love story with some unexpected plot twists that really made you think."

Emily Lopez - "An Officer and a Gentleman' because both my husbands and my son were in the service so I recognized things they told me, even the bad language."

Michelle Johnson - "Romancing the Stone' because it seemed realistic. I especially liked the part when they were sliding down the hill."

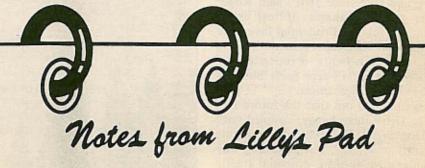

Sooner or later all good things come to an end.

Such is the case of the great cruise we took recently. It's all beginning to slowly fade away like the tan I managed to acquire.

We departed from San Francisco on February 26 heading for Acapulco to board our ship.

We were a short distance out to sea when we heard in a strong Greek accent, "Your attention please. Your attention please. This is your captain."

When the captain of the ship speaks, everyone listens.

"You may have noticed we have slowed down our speed at sea." he continued. "We have just received a communication that two ladies missed the ship.

They are being brought out to meet the ship by a small boat.

We will maintain our present speed until they have come aboard. We thank you for your patience."

Shortly following the announcement a flag was hoisted up into the winds. We all immediately ran for our cameras to catch this action on film. We waited and waited but saw nothing, so we returned to our task of relaxing.

All of a sudden the speed of the ship increased and we noticed the flag was down.

We were all disappointed to have missed the happening, or was there really a happening?

For the next couple of days we heard all kind of rumors.

There were two ladies and they changed their minds about sailing, was one rumor. The other rumor was that the captain made the announcement to let all of us know that we better not be late in returning to the ship when we go into port. Finally the real word was heard.

Yes, there were two women who missed the ship, a mother and daughter. They missed their flight from Guadalajara to Acapulco. They hired a private plane to fly them to Acapulco.

After awhile in the air, the pilot turned to his passenger and asked her if she knew the way to Acapulco.

She gave him a shocked look and replied, "No, not in the air."

"I don't know either, " he replied, "I'm just a student pilot."

They did get lost in the air, but finally managed to reach Acapulco. However, they were too late to get on the ship.

They sent a message to the captain stating they were hiring a boat to catch up with the ship.

Mission accomplished in obtaining a boat, the travelers were once again in pursuit of the vessel.

While in the process of climbing into the boat, one of their suitcases fell overboard.

"Adios," waved the Mexican, hired to navigate the boat, to the luggage.

That didn't stop the two eager passengers trying to catch up with the ship that was carrying the mother's 82 year old aunt.

An aunt who was sharing this trip with them and who was unaware of the happenings of her family.

Almost in sight of their destination, the driver of the boat turned to the lady and said, "We are running out of gas, we better turn back. We'll never make it to the ship."

Once again on shore, the mother made arrangements with a commercial airline to fly the two of them to San Jose to join the cruise.

When the mother and daughter mixed with the rest of the passengers, their plight was told with a good sense of humor.

It was further learned the reason the three, mother, daughter, and aunt, planned the trip was to give the daughter an opportunity to have a relaxing vacation before she had to have major eye surgery.

This is a true story, one of many that could be told about our trip.

Maybe some day there will be a book called "Cruising."

Personality Profile

"I've Had the Privilege of Working With the Best"

by Jana Pantazelos

Stan Kephart's resume reads like that of several different men. Though only forty-six years old, Kephart has had career experiences that would make a great biography of a man twice his age.

Since 1968, Kephart has been a San Jose policeman, a Pleasanton City Councilman, a private security consultant, Vice-President of the corporation that put on the US Festival, security administrator for the 1984 Summer Olympics and Chief Administrative Officer for Callahan-Pentz Properties.

When new acquaintances marvel at this list of glamorous and exciting experiences, Kephart remarks, "I don't think it's so unique. It's self limiting to think in terms of 'why should a cop get to do all these things?' I never thought of myself as just a cop."

These remarks capture Kephart's attitude about what is possible in his or anyone's life. He says "most people are multi-faceted" and have the potential to do many different things. What stops them is their own timidity. "I like hearing the words, 'you can't do this,' that becomes the fuel for my work."

FROM COP TO CITY COUNCILMAN

It was this willingness to try something most people would shy away from that led Stan to run for public office. He was a policeman at the time and Proposition 13 loomed on the state ballot. There were doomsayers who warned about drastic cuts in police and fire services, and as a law enforcement officer, Stan felt he had some insight into the matter. He did not see the predicted drastic cuts as fair or inevitable. He began to speak to homeowners and other community organizations about the potential Prop. 13 cutbacks.

When someone suggested he run for City Council in 1978, he thought, "why not?" Stan was working vice at the time and had permed Afro hair which gave him the look of a renegade. Not exactly the look for a suburban city council candidate. But people listened to what he had to say and he was elected to a four-year term.

The year before saw Kephart completing a Master's program at the University of San Francisco. His thesis was on "Alternatives to Lethal Force." He developed a program of on-going police training which would prepare officers to respond to threatening situations without initially resorting to weapons use.

He began working as a private consultant on contract to such agencies as the Department of the Treasury and the State Park Service. His work entailed a lot of travelling around the country and in 1980, Stan left the San Jose Police Department.

WORKING WITH WOZNIAK

It was his consulting work with various agencies throughout the country that led to a call from Apple Commputer whiz, Steve Wozniak. Kephart had been recommended to Wozniak for his skills in security areas. When Kephart met with Wozniak and heard his plans for a huge outdoor rock and technology festival, he tried to talk him out of it.

Wozniak, of course, was not dissuaded. So Stan set out to help him with his grand vision. Because of his contacts with the State Park Service, Stan was able to arrange a site for the festival. One of the parks on a list of possibilities was a San Bernardino County park. The county parks director was a former Pleasanton Parks director who knew Stan as a City Councilman.

In a creative solution to a potentially tricky situation, Stan offered the county capital improvements for the park in exchange for use of the park site for the US Festival. A contract was finalized in a record 60 days.

The security system which Stan designed for the festival was subtle but effective. He wanted a "visible, but not heavy handed police presence." He recruited college athletes and outfitted them in special t-shirts. Their training was structured and comprehensive, and this system served as a forerunner to the security force which Stan was to direct at the Olympics.

LOS ANGELES SUMMER OLYMPICS

The Olympics Organizing Committee knew of and was impressed with Stan's work at the US Festival. When Stan met with Peter Ueberroth about the job as Olympics Security Administrator, he was promised three things: he would work longer hours than he had ever worked; he would receive a substantial pay cut from his previous job; and he would be fired at the end.

All three things came to pass, but Stan would do it over again tomorrow. He worked long 14-16 hour days overseeing planning, recruitment, training and deployment of the Olympics security force which numbered 22,000. He determined testing and directed exhaustive background checks on all security personnel.

BACK TO PLEASANTON

When the Olympics ended, "I was tired, I bottomed out, I wanted to come home." Stan returned to Pleasanton and he saw that the swampy land on Hopyard Road where he had stuck his "Kephart for City Council" signs was now the site of one of the largest privately owned business parks in the country.

With his usual straight-ahead approach, he spoke with park developer Joe Callahan about a job. As City Councilman, Kephart had voted for the zone changes that allowed the development of the park and he felt a continued commitment to the parks's development. Callahan agreed that Stan had unique skills and background to offer. Stan was hired as Chief Administrative Officer for Callahan-Pentz a position he has held since 1984.

The degree of difficulty and complexity of a job is what attracts Kephart to a task, this, along with the unique stature of the men involved. "I've had the privilege of working with the best," he says.

And his co-workers often say the same of him.

Stan Kephart.

29th Spring Art Show

Valley artists are invited to submit works for the 29th annual Livermore Art Association Spring Show. The show is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday April 5 and 6 at the Barn on Pacific Avenue in Livermore.

Works in many media will be exhibited and artists who work in textiles, oils, watercolors, clay and other media are urged to participate. All items submitted will be displayed.

Artists may bring their pieces to the receiving committee between one and six p.m. on Thursday, April 3.

Judge for this year's show will be watercolorist Christopher Schink of Palo Alto. Schink will select "merit award" winners from all submitted pieces. $500 in cash and prize ribbons will be presented at a Preview Night on April 4.

Entry fes are $3.50 per item for L.A.A. members and $5 for non-members. Entry forms and complete details on the show are available by writing Livermore Art Association, P.O. Box 126, Livermore, CA 94550 or by calling Carol Maddox at 846-1357.

Academy Award Losers

Some of the biggest stars and most accomplished actors in movie history never won an Academy Award.

Every once in a while the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences recognizes their negligence and awards one of those honorary Oscars for "life-time achievement." That's the one Paul Newman received this last time around. Newman has been nominated four times for the best acting Oscar, but never got the votes. So the Academy, with Newman as with others, tried to make up for the error of its ways by awarding a "special" oscar.

Among the other big stars the Academy finally caught up to with belated special Oscars were: Fred Astaire in 1949, Greta Garbo and Danny Kaye in 1954, Cary Grant in 1970, Mickey Rooney in 1982 and Barbara Stanwyck in 1984.

Read the following list of stellar performers who never got to take Oscar home, not even in that "oops!" category the Academy calls "honorary." There are more than a few surprises.

Richard Burton was nominated five times, but never won.

Peter O'Toole co-starred with Burton in "Becket" for which each was nominated.
O'Toole was nominated six other times, but has never won.

Deborah Kerr was nominated six times, but has never won.

Al Pacino has been nominated three times, but has never won.

Gloria Swanson was also nominated three times, but never won.

Jean Simmons received two nominations, but never won.

Sean Connery, Marlene Dietrich, Kirk Douglas and Errol Flynn were never even Robert Redford won a directing Oscar for "Ordinary People" but has never won for his acting.

And of course, Ronald Reagan was never nominated, but he ended up winning the biggest prize of all.

MAPPING IT OUT. Pleansanton artist Gary Winter and associate Gary Thomas are putting the finishing touches on their colorful map of Pleasanton depicting local businesses, landmarks and personalities. A limited edition of the 40x30 inch watercolor poster will be available in April.

Measure B: Part II

Projects to Benefit from Funds

by Jana Pantazelos

Few cities find themselves in the enviable position that Pleasanton finds itself. A projected $14.7 million may be available to the City of Pleasanton to spend for fiscal years 1985-1988 if the voters approve Measure B on April 8.

The ballot measure will read as follows:

"Shall the ordinance changing the appropriation limit and providing for public improvement projects including a new library and the Valley Avenue extension be adopted?"

Though the library and Valley Avenue extension are the only two projects specifically mentioned in the ballot measure, there are other programs that could benefit.

In the language of the ordinance which would change the city's appropriations limits, the following additional spending areas are proposed: programs that would benefit children; projects to enhance the downtown; a senior citizen center and senior housing; and the purchase and improvement of parks and athletic facilities.

The language regarding the other possible uses of the surplus funds is deliberately phrased in generalities according to City Manager Jim Walker. "The City Council recognizes that additional funds may be available but we don't know how much."

NEW PLEASANTON LIBRARY

A new public library has long been a priority in the minds of many Pleasanton residents. Spearheaded by the Pleasanton Library League and its chairman Keith Wardin, a steering committee of advocates for a new Pleasanton library was formed early last year. Public meetings were held and a comprehensive survey of Pleasanton citizens was made. Residents' views were tallied for inclusion in the committee's proposal.

Last April the citizen's committee presented its findings and proposals to the City Council. The proposals and cost estimates made by the steering committee were based on their study of other recent library projects in communities comparable to Pleasanton.

The Council accepted the proposal and soon thereafter allocated funds to start the selection process for an architect.

By autumn, an architect was selected. A building program was developed by the county library staff to give the architect guidelines on collection, services and space needs.

Keith Wardin of the Library League is so committed to the new library that he has extended his involvement to include working on the Yes on Measure B campaign. The library project depends to a great extent on the passage of Measure B. The availability of the surplus funds for the library project will determine "how soon, how big and how fast" according to Wardin.

He adds, "this library will be both a symbolic and tangible representation of the quality of life in Pleasanton. It will have educational and cultural impacts on all the members of our community for years to come."

VALLEY AVENUE EXTENSION

According to City Attorney Peter Mac-Donald, the cost of the project will be approximately $6 million. It will be paid for with Measure B monies and by funds raised from property owners neighboring Valley Avenue who will be part of a special assessment district to be established by the city in mid-June.

Assessment districts are created as a way of paying for public improvements by assessing nearby properties that will specially benefit from those improvements. In the case of the Valley Avenue extension, the expense will be shared by the city because the project is of value to the community at large as well.

Currently Valley Avenue ends just beyond Valley Business Park. When completed Valley Avenue will extend southward to Stanley Blvd. where it will meet the extension of Bernal Ave. The Valley Avenue extension project will allow Vintage Hills commute traffic to directly connect with Valley Avenue. It will complete a link in the city's street system that will alleviate traffic in the downtown area. The anticipated completion date for the project is late 1987.

YOUTH AND SENIORS

The City Council has listed as additional priorities programs for youth and seniors. The city currently plans to concontinued on page 12

April 12 Employment Fair

Employment opportunites ranging from clerical, service and technical to managerial and supervisory will be the highlight of the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce Job Fair on April 12. It will be held at Foothill High School from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Job Fair is offered as a community service to recent graduates and to people seeking a career change or re-entering the work force after a long absence. Though the fair does not provide job placement, attendees will have the opportunity to meet with companies who project 500 employment opportunities over the next twelve months. According to Doug Bosma, chairman of the event, the purpose of the fair is to give people attending "a competitive edge" in the job market.

A tremendous diversity of offerings is slated for the Saturday fair. Participating companies are Associates National Bank Credit Card Services, AT&T, Clorox, Coldwell Banker Real Estate, Farmers Insurance, Harris Real Estate, Holiday Inn, Macys, Safeco, Viacom Cable, Amador Valley Athletic Club and the Hilton Hotel, and Sun Diamond Growers.

Scott Raty, Chamber Executive Director, points out that these employers have found this fair to be a good resource for them. Many are expanding and are looking to hire local people and gain community exposure. "The fair will give job seekers a clearer understanding of what qualities companies are looking for in new employees."

In addition to learning about the current and future employment opportunities with these companies, job seekers at the Fair will be able to meet with representatives of various career and personnel services. These representatives will discuss direct placements, career counseling and elements of a successful job search.

A maximum of 500 job seekers will be registered for the fair. Complete the registration form found in this Pathways edition and send it with a check for $5 to the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce, 411 Main Street, Pleasanton 94566 by April 4. A schedule and tickets for the fair sessions will be sent upon receipt of the registration form and fee. Phone 846-5858 for further information.

What's Cooking?

Joyce Oxen works "full time hours on a part time job." Joyce is receptionist at the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce. She had worked seventeen years in advertising at the Herald and planned to settle into retired life with her husband Ernie.

But Joyce says she just "couldn't let go" and when this job with the Chamber was offered, she jumped at the opportunity. She spends busy hours at the Chamber answering questions from merchants and new residents. She loves the location on Main Street and is delighted to be back at work.

Fortunately her husband Ernie is very supportive and enjoys the retired life. He and Joyce share a love for golf and are deeply involved in the Junior Golf Program. They work with youngsters as young as five years giving golf lessons and helping with tournaments.

One of the other things Ernie has taken on with enthusiasm is sharing the cooking chores. "He does a lot of cooking and there is always something started for dinner when I get home," says Joyce.

Over the years, the Oxen home was the central meeting place for family holiday gatherings and celebrations. "I like to cook for large groups and especially love baking, it's therapy." Now that Joyce and Ernie live in Hacienda Mobile Park, big family gatherings are held in the clubhouse.

During the more than thirty years they have been married, the Oxens have met every other month with long-time friends for a special dinner. It's a chance for good friends to get together and a chance for the host to prepare a special meal. Cioppino was the last entree Joyce prepared and she found this dessert recipe for Strawberry Royale a perfect light finale for that or any spicy meal.

STRAWBERRY ROYALE

Mix 1 cup flour, 1 cup butter, 1/2 cup chopped nuts, 1/2 cup brown sugar and spread mixture in 9x13 inch pan. Bake for 20 minutes at 350 degrees, stirring often. Cool for 20 minutes and reserve 1/3 of mixture for dessert topping.

Whip four egg whites until stiff. Mix in 1 cup of sugar a little at a time adding 3 T. lemon juice, beat 5 minutes more.

Fold in two 10-oz. packages frozen strawberries or 2 baskets sliced fresh strawberries and one 12-oz. container of Cool Whip.

Spread strawberry mixture over base. Top strawberries with remainder of nut mixture. Freeze 6 hours. Remove from freezer 20 minutes before serving. Cut into squares.

Speedy Throng Joins in Thir

Nearly 900 runners started their Sunday off on the right foot by participating in Pleasanton's third annual Soccer City Run on March 9.

Twisting through the streets of Hacienda Business Park, the 5K (3.1 miles) and 10K (6.2 miles) courses were flat and fast, despite chilly 10-15 mph breezes that sometimes made runners feel like Jeff Adkins of Martinez set the standard on the 10K course with a 30:35 clocking; while Sharlet Gilbert of Richmond led the distaff side with a 35:51 timing.

Jim Rentschler, another Martinez speedster, captured the men's 5K title with a stellar 14:29 performance; Sue Vinella-Brusher of Oakland led the women with a 17:35 finish.

The third annual Soccer City Run was co-sponsored by Hacienda Business Park and Curtiss Cadillac/Pontiac/GMC of Tracy. All proceeds from the race benefit the Pleasanton Youth Soccer

Listed below are the additional winners of the 5K and 10K races, all those who ran.

a bit of trivia

by Ben Fernandez

Nothing is more involved with arcane nonsense as the Annual Oscar Awards. There have been 58 of them in all, so there should be much to talk about.

- 1 Who is the only actress to win a Best Supporting Actress award playing a man?
- 2. Three actors/actresses have won Oscars for not speaking a word in their Oscar-winning roles. Who were they?
- Two actors have won Best Actor awards for playing boxers. Name at least one.
- 4. Katharine Hepburn has won four Best Actress Oscars. For what movies?
- 5. Who was the only movie producer to receive seven small Oscars for a movie in the 1930's?
- 6. Only one western has won the Best Picture award. The year was 1931. What was the movie?

- 7. In 1934, "It Happened One Night" won the Best Picture, Best Actor, Best Actress and Best Director awards. This feat was not repeated until 1975. What was the movie that year?
- 8. When Marlon Brando won the Best Actor award for "The Godfather," his award was accepted by an Indian princess. What was her name?
- 9. The first movie to win the Best Picture Oscar was a silent film (1927-1928). What was the movie?
- 10. John Huston, who has received his share of nominations this year, received his first Best Director award in 1947, directing his father in a famous movie about gold prospectors in Mexico. What was the movie.

Let's Eat Out

"The sandwiches and soups are good, but the most important thing is how quick it is." These comments come from a busy attorney who doesn't always find lunch on his schedule. He was talking about the Plaza Deli in Hacienda Business Park.

The Deli offers generous sandwiches, hearty soups and fresh salads Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturdays 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The new deli offers a bright interior with lots of tables and a broad view out the front window of the business park and Pleasanton Ridge beyond. Busy lunchtime traffic lines up at the counter where both trendy and traditional sandwiches are prepared.

There are good basics like roast beef, turkey and tuna salad all made to order on your choice of sour French roll, light and dark rye, whole wheat or white. The more "au courant" offerings include turkey and avocado on croissant; pita bread with swiss, jack and cheddar cheeses; and a sandwich of prosciutto, mortadella, salami and provolone cheese.

The sandwiches are prepared quickly and employees with 30 minute lunch periods can be confident they'll be back to work on time.

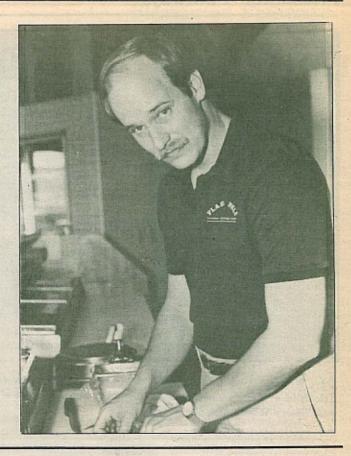

A beer and wine license is on its way and soon imported bottled beers, draft beer and local wines will be available for "mellow" lunches.

Though the Plaza Deli is new to Pleasanton, the deli is part of a familyowned business dating back twenty years.

Owner George Johnson, says "catering is the thing we do best," and he invites locals to call him to find out about weddings, sit-down dinners and party trays.

Plaza Deli, 5694 Stoneridge Drive, 463-DELI.

George Johnson, owner of Plaza Deli in Hacienda Business Park, is a jack-of-all-trades. He prepares sandwiches, greets customers, prepares catering orders, and even has been seen bussing tables during busy lunch hours.

Hacienda Plaza 5677 Gibraltar Dr.-PLEASANTON 460-8500 Courine Warren received a late, but very welcome Christmas present. Warren is director of Hill 'n Dale In-School Day Care and she received a State Department of Education grant for $55,000 in February.

The grant money will be used to fund a much needed before and after school child care program. The starting date for the Hill 'n Dale program will be mid-April or early May according to Warren. Right now, she is busy hiring staff, reviewing applications from families in search of child care and setting up the child care rooms with furniture, toys and books.

The program will serve children ages 6-12 before school starting at 7 a.m. and after school until 6 p.m. Hill 'n Dale is located on the Pleasanton School site on the Abbie Street side.

There is a great need for quality care for school age children according to Warren and other child care experts in the Valley. "With the advent of working mothers, families that used to be able to stay home together, now have two working parents," says Warren. She also points out that the need for child care far exceeds the availability of programs.

In November, 1985, a survey was conducted by the Pleasanton School District and Resources for Family Development. The results showed that in Pleasanton there are over 750 children in kindergarten through fourth grade in need of extended day care. Currently, there are approximately 270 slots to accommodate children in that age group. And of those 270 slots, only 17 are available for lower income families needing day care subsidies.

Warren's program will initially serve 56 children in four rooms at Pleasanton School. She hopes that ultimately the program will expand to include portables at each school site to serve day care children.

A Summer Adventure Program is also in the works for Hill 'n Dale. Warren is planning a day-long summer-camp-like program for extended care children. The hours will be 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. and special activities will include field trips to the San Francisco Exploratorium and Lawrence Hall of Science and a Play Day Children's Festival.

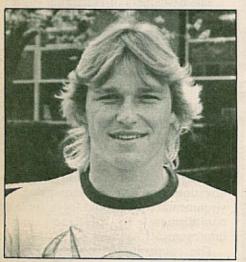

Parents interested in placing their children in the Hill 'n Dale In-School-Day Care program should call Warren at 462-7625. Applicants are accepted on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Dons and Falcons Battle for NCS Soccer Title

by Gary F. Koehler

The Amador Dons and Foothill Falcons engaged in a tremendous soccer match on March 1 for the North Coast Section Championship, and proved to everybody in attendance that the best high school soccer is still played in the East Bay Athletic League.

After almost two hours of rugged, physical play, before a large crowd of local soccer fans, the match was deadlocked at 0-0. Although there were numerous shots on goal by both teams, neither could seem to score during the regulation period, two 10 minute overtime periods and two five minute sudden-death overtime periods.

Steve Kramer, Amador goalie.

In the penalty kick period designed to break such tie games and produce a winner, Foothill's versatile Joey Johansen scored first for the Falcons.

Amador's Scott Wulferdingen almost nailed his penalty kick to tie, but it bounced off the goal post for a miss.

Foothill's Dan Kaiser then hit what looked like a sure goal, only to have Don goalie Steve Kramer, who had 13 saves during the match, deflect the kick with a great saving effort.

As the pressure mounted, Amador's Sean Heritage drilled his kick to tie the score at 1-1. Foothill responded with their E.B.A.L. scoring champion, Mike Duesterhaus, nailing his attempt to forge a 2-1 Falcon lead.

It was then time for Amador's Kevin Wiese, who was a scoring threat all night for the Dons, to attempt his kick.

Foothill goalie, Andre DePiano, who had 12 saves on the night, blocked the shot to protect the 2-1 Falcon advantage.

Scott Harris then jammed home a hard shot in the left corner of the Amador goal for a 3-1 Foothill lead, only to see John Connolly of Amador follow suit with his attempt to make the score 3-2.

With the crowd on both sides of the field standing and screaming on every attempt, Foothill's Jim Strommer cranked up and drilled his kick for the deciding fourth goal of the period, producing a roar of approval from the Falcon rooting section and securing the N.C.S. Cham-

Foothill's Joey Johanson and Andre De Piano. pionship for his team.

Amador Coach Mike Geib can take great pride in his team's league championship season, and in the way his players battled their way through the preliminary rounds of N.C.S. playoffs to reach the title game.

The Dons sterling season has been a major step forward in the resurgence of Amador's soccer program, and Coach Geib has played a major role in that

On the other side of town, Foothill Coach George Vranesh has to be "walking on air". The Falcons, who lost to Granada High in the N.C.S. Championship game last year, were magnificent in winning the title for the second time in the past three years.

The Falcon team was a relentless machine throughout the match, playing both ends of the field with great intensity. And anything less than a maximum effort would have cost them the championship, as Amador literally matched them period by period.

In the end, the game strategy employed by Coach Vranesh, and his intelligent substitutions for injured and exhausted players, were the vital factors in the Foothill victory.

The Falcon coach also gave his charges a "pep talk" just prior to the game in which he reminded them of the loss to Granada a year earlier. He stressed the fact that they had an opportunity to erase that memory.

The Falcons responded, as they had in earlier playoff victories over Berkeley and highly rated De La Salle, with an inspired performance to win the 1985-86 N.C.S. Soccer Championship.

campus, located in the Westwood Village suburb of West Los Angeles, in early September. After enrolling in classes, she will be joining the U.C.L.A. women's golf team, and begin practice under the watchful eye of Bruin coach Jackie Steinmann.

Playing for the Amador High golf team last year as a junior, Zedlitz won the East Bay Athletic League Individual Championship. She capped off her stellar year by entering the P.G.A. National Juniors Tournament, held in West Palm Beach, Florida, and proceeded to win the event. Carding an even 300 score over four rounds of medal play, Zedlitz demonstrated her poise under pressure by defeating some of the finest junior golfers in the United States.

As a member of the current Amador High golf team, Zedlitz is constantly working to improve her game. She is looking forward to her final year of competition in the E.B.A.L., but is also eagerly anticipating her transition to the college ranks. She will miss her home, parents and school, but can't wait for the opportunity to play for the Bruins.

Dolan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Dolan of Pleasanton, will report to the Salt Lake City campus in August for preseason conditioning drills.

Utah, with an improving football program, plans to utilize Dolan as an offensive tackle and defensive end. At 6'5" and 245 pounds, the young man certainly has the size to be a major contributor to the Utah program, and the coaching staff already has him busy studying playbooks to familiarize him with the sophisticated Utah offense.

A three sport athlete at Foothill, Dolan was a member of both the basketball and track teams, as well as playing football for the Falcons.

While he was highly successful in each sport, and thoroughly enjoyed the time he spent in each activity, the demands of being a three sport athlete probably caused him to develop less rapidly as a football player than some of his peers at other schools who worked only on football year

The Utah coaching staff recognizes that fact, and is eager to begin working with

The young Foothill graduate is just as eager to begin his collegiate career, and feels that concentrating on football full time will allow him to contribute to the Utah program more quickly.

The developers can steer taller, higher density office buildings toward the freeway and build nonimposing, low-impact projects near the business park's borders with off-tract housing and retail establishments.

CONSISTENCY IN QUALITY TENANTS

The improved flexibility, convenient freeway access and financial health of the area will put Hacienda in a strong position to attract only the very best corporate tenants. Hacienda will be able to continue to pursue tenants that are non-polluting, responsive to the local community, supportive of the city's Transportation Systems Management Ordinance and dedicated to preserving Pleasanton's high quality of life.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONTROLS

With myriad conditions of approval placed on each new building project, Hacienda has perhaps the state's most comprehensive environmental and quality control measures. In addition to meeting these conditions of approval, each proposed new building at Hacienda must be approved by: 1) Hacienda's internal

Design Review Committee;2) the Pleasanton Planning Commission; 3) the Pleasanton City Council. TRAFFIC SAFEGUARDS

As a further safeguard to maintain Pleasanton's high quality of life, traffic projections are required by the city for each proposed building at Hacienda. If projections indicate a building will tax any north Pleasanton intersection beyond a certain designed level of capacity, development can be halted until steps are taken to avoid the potential traffic congestion.

DEVELOPMENT TIED TO FREEWAY INTERSECTIONS

Along with Hacienda and the city's existing building-by-building traffic and environmental controls, a further caveat has been placed on new development at the business park: While projects can now be proposed for development on Phase II land, total development between Hacienda's two phases cannot exceed the buildout level previously approved solely for Phase I (7.3 million square feet) until work has begun on the new freeway in-intersections at Hacienda Drive/I-580 and Stoneridge Drive/I-680.

The developers of Hacienda, Prudential and Callahan-Pentz, are in agreement with the city's conditions and controls.

"We look at Phase II as an integral component in assuring Pleasanton a healthy, sensibly planned future. We feel confident that the flexibility we've gained with the city's approval of Phase II will help to make an already excellent community an even better place to live," Gage

Hacienda Business Park has received extensive national attention for its innovations in planning, landscaping, environmental controls and for its financial commitment to off-tract public improvements.

The cooperation between staff and decision makers at city hall and the business park's developers in the dynamics of the planning process and in the mandating of safeguards to protect the city's environment has made Pleasanton a study model for city planners across

State-of-the Art Equipment Keeps Customers Spotless

Your local dry cleaning establishment isn't what it used to be.

There's a trend afoot in the dry cleaning industry to use state-of-the-art equipment that has the ability to remove stains from delicate fabrics like never before.

One such high-tech dry cleaners recently opened its doors to help those of us who are sloppy and spill-prone to look

Hacienda Cleaners, located in Hacienda Business Park, is a full-service cleaners and laundry that gets rid of dirt like Clint Eastwood gets rid of rustlers in "spaghetti westerns."

Owner Manu Shagafi has 27 years in the dry cleaning business. He and his wife Frances have invested nearly $300,000 in the best washers, dryers, blowers, steam presses and folding machines on the market today.

"We can clean and press 150-180 shirts an hour," says Mrs. Shagafi, noting that Hacienda Cleaners will launder and press shirts for 99 cents through April as an introductory offer.

Although the new machines allow the Shagafis to treat dirt and stains more effectively, there still remain big challenges in the dry cleaning business. "Older styles are in again," comments Mrs. Shagafi, "and with that there seems to be a trend to take old dresses out of storage and make them part of a woman's wardrobe. Some of these dresses were stored with stains and removing those middle-aged stains is the biggest challenge we face."

The Shagafis recently successfully treated a 175-year old wedding dress. "We couldn't just throw chemicals at it and hope for the best," says Mrs. Shagafi. "We had to clean the garment very gently, seven different times in all, to get it looking new again."

In addition to its expanding customer base, Hacienda Cleaners is responsible for all valet cleaning services offered at the Sheraton Inn, Holiday Inn, Super 8 and Compri hotels in Pleasanton. The dry cleaners also offers free pick-up and delivery service to anyone in Pleasanton.

Hacienda Cleaners is open from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. (Monday-Friday) and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. It is located in the Hacienda Plaza Shopping Center just south of the clock tower.
